

We were strangers, too

The Jewish Campaign for Immigration Reform

Jewish Day of Action to Oppose the “SAFE” Act

A project of the “We Were Strangers, Too” Jewish Campaign for Immigration Reform

The Jewish community has serious concerns about the “Strengthen and Fortify Enforcement” (SAFE) Act, H.R. 2278, which was approved by the House Judiciary Committee in June 2013.

Among other things, this bill would:

- Worsen laws targeting terrorism that instead negatively impact refugees and asylees;
- Expand the immigration detention system that currently detains torture survivors, asylum seekers, and others seeking protection in the U.S. from persecution in their home countries;
- Unwisely delegate enforcement of national immigration laws to state and local law enforcement agencies.

Join us on Thursday, October 17th to urge the House to oppose the SAFE Act!

Visit www.wewerestrangerstoo.wordpress.com for more information. You also can help spread the word on twitter about this dangerous legislation:

- SAFE Act would make us LESS safe by fostering fear of law enforcement in refugee communities
bit.ly/NoHR2278 #HATEAct #Jews4CIR #TimeisNow
- SAFE Act would bar law-abiding refugees who’ve lived in the US for decades from naturalizing
bit.ly/NoHR2278 #HATEAct #Jews4CIR #TimeisNow
- SAFE Act could subject even those who “look documented” to police stops, arrests & detention
bit.ly/NoHR2278 #HATEAct #Jews4CIR #TimeisNow

